

The purposes of the Society are,

To champion the health and wellbeing of the people of B.C. through:

- a) increasing awareness of issues that are of concern to communities and the community services sector;
- b) promoting the value of collaborative, high quality community-based social services;
- c) promoting public participation through engaging boards in projects and activities at the community and provincial levels;
- d) promoting volunteerism and good governance by providing training and resources to volunteer boards operating in the community services sector;
- e) providing financial assistance to other charitable or non-profit organizations having purposes consistent with those of the Society for the advancement of their charitable and philanthropic activities, and;
- f) acquiring, administering, investing and operating property, directly or indirectly in furtherance of the above purposes of the Society.